

THE INKERMAN GROUP

PRESS RELEASE

THE INKERMAN GROUP ACQUIRES CAPITAL EYE AND PSS

THE INKERMAN GROUP, 19th May 2008, has announced that it has acquired the international security and policing advisory company, Capital Eye.

Capital Eye is the latest in a number of acquisitions made by The Inkerman Group as the Company continues to expand and develop its portfolio of products and services.

Capital Eye was formed in the mid 1990s by Lord Peter Imbert, former Commissioner of the London Metropolitan Police at New Scotland Yard. Capital Eye was established to provide clients with professional policing and security expertise, making the best knowledge and experience to governments, police and security services businesses and private individuals, both nationally and internationally. Through its subsidiary Policing Support Services ('PSS') it also supplies former police officers to police services and other organisations requiring policing skills. The union between The Inkerman Group and Capital Eye, will both strengthen the current product offering as well as delivering clients a more rounded service.

Gerald Moor, CEO of The Inkerman Group, is jubilant about this latest move in the Company's ambitious, yet defined growth plans. "Capital Eye and The Inkerman Group together brings significant advantages to the marketplace – clients will now have access to an even greater range of security and risk management services, all on an international as well as national basis. I am thrilled that Lord Imbert has also become a Strategic Advisor to The Inkerman Group"

Simon Imbert, Managing Director of Capital Eye, explains that the move is a very positive one for both companies – "This is a really exciting time both for Capital Eye and The Inkerman Group as both companies already share a great synergy in their services; this development represents a consolidation of skills that our clients will reap real reward from. The management fit is excellent on both sides and hence the future bodes well".
