

THE INKERMAN GROUP

PRESS RELEASE

JAMES MARMENT COMPLETES BOARD LINE-UP AT THE INKERMAN GROUP

THE INKERMAN GROUP, 23 JULY 2007 has announced that James Marment has joined its Board of Directors as Non-Executive Director. This announcement signals the completion of the company's recent activity to strengthen its Board as it embarks on a period of significant growth.

Marment has joined the Board at this time to further contribute to The Inkerman Group's ambitious business plans, having worked previously with the company for some time already as a strategic advisor, he has already brought significant industry and commercial experience to its activities to date.

Following an exemplary career with the British Army to a senior rank, James Marment has successfully achieved wide ranging international business development expertise in the defence, law enforcement and security sectors. As an already experienced Non-Executive Director with his own consulting business with clients throughout the world, he possesses a substantial and impressive network within the sector. "I am extremely excited by the opportunity facing The Inkerman Group at this time" he explains "and am delighted to be able to contribute to it in this capacity. This company has great potential in the future –its comprehensive range of services in this sector, together with its ability to offer highly professional, responsive, flexible and entirely tailored offerings to its clients is unique, and there are many companies out there who need this kind of service provision."

Gerald Moor, CEO adds "I am delighted that Jamie has agreed to join The Inkerman Group as Non-Executive Director – he joins the Board at a critical point in the company's development and there is no doubt that he will play a significant part in our growth plans in the future. He brings an enormous wealth of knowledge and experience to the company and his addition to the Board ensures that we now have the full complement to take us forward."
